Love laughs at blizzards as well as locksmiths. The Shepherdstown Register tells this: Mr. Bittle Fulk and Miss Virgie McKee, of Vanclevesville, were to have been married at the Southern Methodist parsonage in Shepherdstown Methodist parsonage in Shepherdstown Methodist parsonage in Shepherdstown Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A number of their friends were there at that hour, but the bridal party did not put in an appearance. Those who had come to witness the ceremony waited until five o'clock, when they became weary and took their departure. It afterward transpired that the snow had drifted in the roads so badly that the wedding party could not get through. Every effort was made to open the roads, but as fast as the snow was shoveled out it was blown back, and finally they had to give up. But it was determined to have a wedding, so the services of Rev. Mr. Evers, a neighboring preacher, were called in, and the marriage took place at the home of Mr. Rousch McKee, the bride's father, the same evening. same evening.

The Hampshire Review has this remarkable story: "The oldest couple ever divorced in this county and probably in the state, figured in the last term of court here. A divorce was granted Mary Ann Shoemaker, aged about seventy years, from her husband, william Shoemaker, who is nearly executive. enty years, from her husband, william shoemaker, who is nearly seventy-five years of age. They had lived together over forty years, when some trouble arose and the old lady applied for a divorce. They have children married and grandchildren of considerable size. The decree of divorce allows the old lady allimony to the amount of $95 a year, but provides that neither party shall ever marry again."

One night last week, a large boulder about the size of a box car fell from the about the size of a box car fell from the side of the mountain near Kinney's creek, on New river, and rolled down. Near the foot of the mountain there was a shanty in which three negro men slept. The rock struck the shanty and literally tore it to pieces. One of the negroes had left the shanty only a few minutes before the rock fell and was standing only a short distance from the shanty when the rock crushed in upon it. The other four men were killed outright and their remains were dug out right and their remains were dug out the debris next day.

Several thousand acres of coal land have recently been purchased on the line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, line of the Ealtimore & Ohio railroad, near Farmington, Marion county. One tract of 1,500 acros by Trader Sessler and other, lies between Fairmont and Farmington. J. M. Guffy, the coal and oil operator, is taking up quite a large block. In fact so rapidly have these lands been disposed of that only one or two tracts owned by local people now remain available for purchase.

Trading in stocks showed rather a larger volume of business, but the greater part of it was in less than half a dozen shares, while the movements showed some irregularity and nervolumes. Finetuations in the general list were unimportant, but were effected by the extreme weakness in stocks and the poor showing of the bank statement, which encouraged aggressive operations on the part of the bears and confirmed the waiting attitude of speculators who are holding off until the situation shall have become less complicated. The features of the day were Northern Pacific preferred, the extraordinary drop of Tennessee Coal at the opening and the operations in Sigar. Beading was active and well held until later in the session, when the general weakness became prominent, and it shows a decline of 15 per cent. CHICAGO. Feb. 25.—Selling in the last hour, was the notable incident of to-day's business on the board of trade. Demoralizing cables started the break. It was a scattering narrow market in wheat most of the session. It was argued that Chicago is relatively higher than any other market in the world, and the stocks in sight and the apparently unlimited reserves are all against the price, yet holders are inclined to continue their gip, honing for some favorable action by the buils to help them out.

Petroleum.

New York, Feb. 25.—The increased scarcity of oil, owing to the decreased production of the McDonald neid and the disappointment over the developments in West Virginia, resulted to-day in increased speculative activity in the oil markets at Oil City. Pittsburgh and New York. The transactions at both exchanges were larger than for any full day for a long time past, and though some portion of this business may be actributed to switching operations, the statistical situation fully justifies both the present activity and the advance, which is now nearly 10e from the lower prices prevailing a few weeks ago. The market opened strong at 61½c at the consolidated exchange and steadily advanced to 62½c, the last price being the highest of the day, and closed at 62c bid, offered at 62½c, on sales of 195,000 barrels.
